

Student Application Form

For Applicants to any UWC School or College ¹

Before you apply

Please make sure that you find out as much as possible about UWC before going ahead with your application. It is important that you understand the aims of the organisation and the commitment involved with the programme offered. A short outline of the programmes offered, selection criteria and process can be found in Section E. Further information can be found in the UWC general leaflet, at the UWC website www.uwc.org and/or in information published by the UWC National/Selection Committee in your country.

Before filling out the application form it is essential that you contact the Selection Committee that will handle your application to make sure that you have the correct form (many Committees have their own forms or adaptations of this form) and to find out if there are any additional materials you need to submit. Applicants generally need to have a recommendation from their current school for their application to be considered. Section D of the application form is for references and provides space for two reports.

Applicants will be short listed on the basis of the information in the application forms, their references and any other documentation required by the Selection Committee. Short listed applicants will usually be interviewed by their regional and/or national UWC selection committee. General criteria for selection are described in Section E; in addition to these the UWC selection committee processing the application will be able to provide applicants with a more detailed set of criteria applicable to the selection process in question.

The decisions of UWC selection committees are recommendations to the Heads of United World Colleges, not firm offers of places. A nominated applicant is enrolled only after having received written acceptance by the Head of the College to which the nomination has been made.

UWC wish to encourage graduates to return to their home country after completing their education and training. Applicants should show a commitment to return to home to use their experiences, skills and knowledge to assist in the development of their own countries and the furtherance of peace, understanding and justice in the national context.

Parents or guardians are, together with the applicant, responsible for signing this form, but the decision to apply must lie above all with applicants themselves.

¹ If there is a UWC Selection Committee in your country please contact them as they may have their own form or an adapted version of this form to be used by their applicants.

Section E Information about UWC and general conditions of entry

United World Colleges (UWC) is unique. It is the only global educational movement that brings together students from all over the world – regardless of their ability to pay – with the aim of fostering international understanding, peace and justice. A UWC education features high academic standards, a strong emphasis on community service and a wide range of cultural and outdoor activities.

Eleven of the United World Colleges teach the International Baccalaureate (IB) which blends the specialisation preferred in some national education systems with the breadth of others. IB students take three subjects at higher level and three at standard level. The language of instruction in the UWCs offering the IB is largely English; basic knowledge of English is helpful but not a requirement to apply. Many students with little or no English on acceptance have been very successful thanks to their determination and motivation.

The twelfth College, Simón Bolívar UWC offers a three-year tertiary level diploma in Farm Administration, mixing practical and academic work with sustainable development activities in rural communities. At Simón Bolívar the language of instruction is Spanish, the College offers a course before term starts for those with no or limited Spanish skills.

Students entering Simón Bolívar are usually aged 18 or 19; students entering the other UWCs for the IB diploma programme are usually between 15 and 17 years old when selected. The local UWC National Committee can give more information about age and other prerequisites for application.

Scholarships

Students are selected for United World Colleges on the basis of merit, regardless of their background. To make this possible scholarship funds are raised from graduates, friends, foundations, business, non-governmental organisations and governments. Scholarship support is usually based on need; however some students' parents may be asked and expected to make contributions to the costs of their attendance, travel and/or pocket money according to their ability to do so. Assessments of families' ability to make such contributions will be made as impartially as possible and by agreement between the UWC National/Selection Committee or the College and the families concerned.

How to apply

Students should apply through the National Committee or Selection Contact in the country in which they live, who will be able to tell them which Colleges they have places for, as well as give information about the scholarships available.

The selection process includes written applications and interviews and there may also be examinations, teamwork exercises, excursions or camps. Committees will be looking for open-minded applicants who will thrive in an intensive, multicultural environment. They will also be searching for academic potential, a commitment to community service, a 'grand passion' such as music, drama or sport, and enthusiasm for UWC's ideals.

Applicants with disabilities but that are self-sufficient in their everyday needs are encouraged to apply.

Further information about UWC, including contact details for National Committees & Selection Contacts, can be found on our website; www.uwc.org.
